Pictures of 50 Girls to be Identified at Cressy Trial

HEAD OF SCHOOL TESTIFIES

Slain Girl Tried to Shun Accused, Witness Says

(BY LUCILLE F. SAUNDERS)
MINEOLA, N. Y.—(United Press)—Identification of the pretty faces in a love gallery composed of more than 50 photographs found among the personal effects of William M. Cressy is slated for today in the Nassau-co court.

The young women's photographs are believed to mark the love trail of the Kentuckian now on trial here for the murder of Miss Edith Layoy. Cressy, accused of murdering the Freeport school teacher, while she lay on a couch in her room on the night of June 22, showed signs of uneasiness for the first time during a dramatic recital of event immediately preceding the girl's death.

LETTERS FOUND
Interest centers about certain letters found in Cressy's belongings and in six fragments of a note Miss Layoy is said to have written to a friend and then torn up. These fragments are alleged to have been found in a basket in her room and pieced together, revealing her written intention of declining to receive further attentions from Cressy.

Miss Edna Shoemaker, principal of the Grove-et, school in Freeport, told of two letters made by Cressy to the school house on day of Miss Layoy's death, when he looked "haggard and drawn and had a wild look in his eyes as he had something on his mind."

TOOK GIRL HOME
"I came into the school room by arrangement with Miss Layoy about 4 o'clock and he was there leaning over her desk and talking very earnestly to her. When I came into the room, she brightened up," said Miss Shoemaker.

"I told him I had to take her away to make up a report. Cressy said nothing. They didn't seem to be coming and I would not leave the room while he was there.

"When I reminded them again after waiting, they both came. I didn't have any work for Miss Layoy to do, so I took her home. We left Cressy. A little while later, Miss Layoy went to the door, opened it, and I went back in the corner. I looked through the window and saw Cressy going by. He passed. Then Miss Layoy went out. She hid behind the door and the hedge and the hedge was all gone into the railroad station. Then we went out and ate. I went with her until 6 p. m. and went with her to her room."

Miss Shoemaker told of hearing that Miss Layoy was dead and returning to her room at 11 o'clock, half an hour after the murder is alleged to have been committed.

"Cressy was sitting in a chair, rocking back and forth with his hands before his face and crying. 'Oh my darling, I loved her,' the witness said.

TWO MORE ARE TAKEN IN ALCOHOL CONSPIRACY CASE
CLEVELAND — Two more prisoners were taken to the county jail early today in connection with the alleged $100,000 Auerbach alcohol conspiracy case.

The latest prisoners, who were alleged by the authorities to have been active in disposing of alcohol illegally, withdrawn by the Milton Heller Hair Tonic Company are Nathan Wahl, 29, and Joseph Goodman, 37.

They were arrested on warrants served by federal dry agents at midnight Monday.

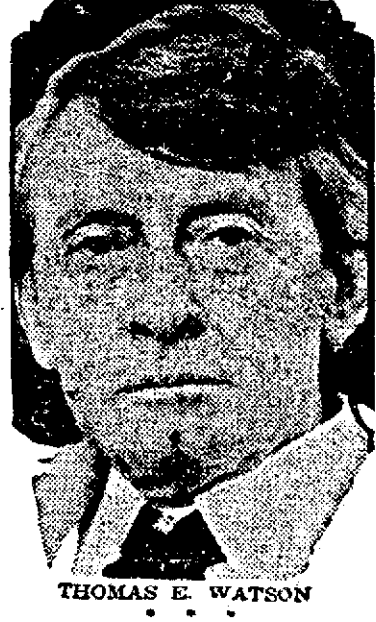

The latest arrests bring the total number of accused in the case to 7. Besides Abraham and Louis Auerbach, agents Monday arrested three others. They are Abraham Limbert, Morris Moss and Moritz Cohen. All were held in bail of $5,000 each.

ASTHMA VICTIM

SENATOR WATSON DIES SUDDENLY

Georgia Solon Falls Victim of Acute Asthma

ONCE PRESIDENTIAL NOMINEE

Spectacular Career in Public Life is Ended

WASHINGTON — (United Press) — Senator Tom Watson of Georgia died suddenly early today at his home here.

Acute asthma, from which Watson had suffered for years, caused his death at 2:40 a. m.

Senator Watson had a severe attack of the malady a week ago, but improved sufficiently to attend the final session of the senate late Friday. His physicians protested at the time he was too weak, but Watson said he felt all right.

Last night Watson ate a hearty dinner and apparently was in better health than he had been for some time. A little later he suffered a recurrence of the asthmatic seizure and his physicians were unable to save him.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed, but the late senator's burial will occur at his home in Thomson, Ga., where Mrs. Watson went some time ago. Mrs. Watson had returned to Thomson to recuperate after a severe illness.

W. A. Watson, a brother, and Mrs. Julia Chitt, a sister, both of Thomson, Ga., survive, in addition to the widow.

PICTURESQUE PUBLIC LIFE
The Georgia senator who was one of the most picturesque figures in public life, was 66 years old. As a member of the house, as an editor, as Populist candidate for the presidency, and as senator, he attracted widespread attention because of his fiery speech and writings and his aggressive championing of the causes in which he was interested.

Watson was elected to the house of representatives in 1891 on the Populist ticket. In 1896 the Populist convention at St. Louis nominated him for vice president. The Peoples party nominated him for president four years later.

As editor of the Columbia Sentinel, Watson made both friends and enemies with his pen and became known in Georgia as well as in Washington political circles as "the stormy petrel."

Watson was a native of Georgia. After studying law, he entered politics as a young man, being elected to the Georgia house of representatives and later being elected at large.

MEETING TO BE HELD OCT. 2

Repetition of Smyrna Massacre in Constantinople Feared

CONSTANTINOPLE — (Associated Press) — The armistice conference to arrange for the cessation of hostilities between the Greeks and Turkish Nationalists will be held at Mudania on or about October 2, provided that the Ankara government accepts the provisional peace terms outlined in the note from the allied powers.

This was decided at a council of the allied high commissioners held here in the British embassy, and attended by Hamid Bey, representative of the Nationalists. Hamid asked pledges from the British government that the positions around Chanak be not reinforced during the progress of the negotiations.

Rear Admiral Mark L. Bristol, American high commissioner, did not participate in the council but it is understood the United States will have an observer at the final peace conference.

PROTEST TO ALLIES
The Ankara government has protested to the allies, against the presence in the Bosphorus of the Greek flagship Averoff.

The remaining members of the Greek military mission and prominent members of the Greek colony have boarded the Averoff, which is leaving shortly for Athens.

A large Greek transport filled with troops and artillery passed thru the Bosphorus yesterday on the way to Rodosto, to strengthen the army in Thrace.

The Greek residents of Constantinople are apprehensive of the results should the Turkish Nationalists take over the capital. Many frankly express the fear of a repetition of the Smyrna massacres.

WILL FIRE HOMES
"If the Kemalists take Constantinople and attack us," said one prominent Greek, an executive for an American corporation, today, "we will fire our homes before we flee, and will not leave a penny's worth of property."

Christian minorities so ignominiously abandoned by the allies will again, as in the year 1453, save Christianity in Europe by their lives.

"This is no more a war of conquest, but a war of religion. Europe is threatened with a Moslem renaissance."

GREEK PLANS
ATHENS — (Associated Press) — Premier Triantafyllakos is planning to strengthen his cabinet still further, according to the newspapers, by proposing the creation of a National ministry representing all parties, and including former Premier Venizelos, who would serve as a special envoy in the eastern capitals.

This move is described as the cabinet's answer to the project of bringing General Metaxas into power, and is hailed as a step calculated to assure a united Greece.

Former Premiers Gounaris and Stratos, and also General Metaxas, will be invited to become members of the ministry under the coalition scheme as outlined.

Alexander Diomede, former minister of finance, who is recognized as an active leader in the Venizelist party, is planning to proceed soon to Paris to consult M. Venizelos.

NOMINATION OF COXEY IS PUZZLING SMITH

COLUMBUS — Can "General" Jacob S. Coxey of Massillon, failing to get on the November election ballot as an independent candidate for United States senator, become an independent candidate for congress in the nineteenth district (Steubenville?) Secretary of State Smith now is wrestling with this question.

Coxey, thru a resident of the sixteenth (Canton) district, has been nominated by an independent organization for congressman in the nineteenth district. So far Secretary Smith has found no law that would prevent Coxey seeking election in the nineteenth district.

ENDS OWN LIFE

Ohioan Despondent Over Love Affair, Hangs Self

HAMILTON — (United Press) — Despondency over a love affair was given by Coroner Edward Cook as the reason for the suicide of Ora Slipher, 25, whose body was found hanging from rafters in the garage at his home early today.

The coroner said Slipher left a long note addressed to Mrs. Irma Slipher, his mother, in which he said: "I love Ethel" and "Do not sell the farm."

The coroner would not divulge the other portions of the letter.

LONG SKIRTS OPPOSED BY SOUTHERN WOMEN

NEW YORK — Southern women are not taking kindly to the new fashion of Greek draperies and long skirts, according to T. L. Anderson, Richmond, Va., vice president of the Southern Wholesale Dry Goods Association, who is in New York.

ALLIES CALL HALT ON KEMAL

Given 48 Hours to Withdraw from Neutral Zone

REFUSAL MEANS CLASH

March of British Forces is Already Under Way

(BY LLOYD ALLEN)
LONDON. — (United Press). —

The allied admirals at Smyrna today served an ultimatum on Mustapha Kemal that the Turkish forces must be withdrawn from the neutral zone of the straits. It was officially announced. It was understood that the leader of the Turkish nationalists has 48 hours to order the retreat of machine gunners and cavalrymen who have invaded the zone and taken up a position at Erekeul, ten miles south of the British stronghold at Chanak on the Dardanelles.

In case the withdrawal is not complete within 48 hours, it is understood the British will move on the Kemalists.

The invasion at Erekeul which threatens to upset the allied peace plans in the Near East, is the second by the Kemalists. The Kemalists, 48 hours ago, entered the neutral zone but after their commanders stated they did so because they were under the impression that the British had left, the Turks withdrew.

The seriousness of this situation is aggravated, according to allied officials, by the fact it is impossible to explain this invasion away by claiming another "mistake" had been made.

ORDERED TO ACT
It was understood that Sir Charles Harrington, British commander-in-chief in the Channel area has been notified of the allied ultimatum and has been ordered to act in case the terms of the demand are not carried out.

It was reported here that the Kemalists have at least 3,500 picked troops at Erekeul and that reinforcements are on the way. This, however, could not be confirmed.

Kemal is now at Smyrna, having recently ordered his headquarters from Izmir, before the British lines that are protecting Constantinople. It was presumed that the ultimatum was served on him in person.

The French authorities in Constantinople, according to the British announcement, took the Kemalists' invasion up with Hamid Bey, the Turkish representative in that city.

SITUATION DELICATE
British officials, in their announcement, urged that a conservative course be pursued in view of the admittedly delicate situation.

It was pointed out that "the incident really does not begin until after the expiration of the time limit."

The allied note, which was dispatched to Kemal, invited him to attend a Near East peace conference, at which the French, Italian and British governments promised to support his claims to Constantinople and Thrace as far as the Mariza river. The allied governments, however, made the press stipulations that Kemal was not to invade the neutral zone, which, according to the terms of the note, was to be confined into keeping of the league of nations.

BRITISH MARCH IS UNDER WAY
CONSTANTINOPLE. — (United Press). — The British march from Chanak toward Erekeul, where the Turks have taken up a position in the neutral zone, has started. It was reported here today.

According to this report, the destination of the British troops is Kuskeni, which is seven miles south of Chanak, the British stronghold, and about three miles north of Erekeul, the Turkish position.

The purpose of the British march, it was reported, is to take up a position at Kuskeni in order to block the Turks a case they start to advance toward Chanak.

It was further reported that the Turks were rushing reinforcements of troops, machine guns and heavy artillery to Erekeul which would indicate that the Kemalists do not intend to withdraw but are desirous of fighting the invasion.

With the invasion of the neutral zone in the Chanak area, which borders the Dardanelles on the left of the Sea of Marmara, the allied authorities have ordered the civilian population to evacuate the village of Daridja, which is located in the neutral zone, adjacent to Constantinople in the vicinity of the Straits of Bosphorus, a the right of the Sea of Marmara.

ROMANTIC DREAMS DISPELLED BY REAL HAREM

BY SQUAD HANIM

NEW YORK — (Special) — Since the outbreak of hostilities between the Greeks and Turks in Asia Minor, America is again being flooded with tales of the horrors of the Turkish harem.

Some of them are true. Most are lies.

The cruel and brutal husband is not unknown in Turkey—nor is he unknown in America, as witness the records of the American divorce courts.

I have found many popular misconceptions in America of the life of the Turkish married woman.

To the average American, mention of the harem brings to his mind a picture of a portly gentleman loitering at ease on a divan, propped up by numerous gorgeous colored cushions, with a miniature pony ballet composed of his many wives in front of him.

ONE WIFE ENOUGH
But in the interest of truth it is necessary for me to destroy that fairy ideal.

While the Koran permits to the Moslem four wives, not more than one modern Turk in a hundred avails himself of the privilege.

One wife is about all that he can successfully manage.

A Turkish wife has the same duties, the same cares, the same rights and the same privileges as any American wife.

I might dance with my husband but not for him.

I would sing or play a piano for him the same as any American wife would do.

Another fallacy of American belief that I must destroy, is that no man may see a Turkish woman's face except her husband.

That was true up to the time of Abdul Hamid. But during the past few years, the custom has gradually died out.

Turkish women now appear in public without the veil covering the face, the being true daughters of Eve, they retain their beautiful lines by wearing it draped from the side of the head.

To such a state of freedom have the Turkish women obtained, that in Constantinople the ladies of society—a class which in Europe ardently follows the fashions—place their bets with men as freely as the women of any Christian nation.

Any Turkish woman may go freely about the streets, unveiled, while she does her shopping or visits her friends.

She is not guarded by slaves, excepting in the case of the women of the royal family, who also wear the yashmak or face covering.

Upon the Turkish wife is the custom of not appearing in public places with her husband. But even that last remaining barrier to complete freedom is gradually being overthrown.

BORN THEIR HUSBANDS
I kept my house, took care of the financial accounts, did the cooking and generally bowed my husband as I do now in America.

He and I were partners in every sense of the word.

Perhaps Turkish marriages can show a greater percentage of happy unions than exist in America.

We look before we leap, and the advice of our parent is usually followed.

I hope that this will correct the false ideas which so many Americans have of Turkish married life.

PATERNITY CASE NEARS CLOSE

Testimony at Poulin Trial Expected to End Today

ACCUSER AGAIN COLLAPSES

Mrs. Tiernan Advised Not to Attend Court

SOUTH BEND, Ind. — (United Press) — Mrs. Augusta Tiernan, who accuses Harry Poulin of being the father of her third child, collapsed at her home here early today. Physicians advised her not to attend today's session of the paternity case.

Mrs. Tiernan declared, however, that she would be in court.

Mrs. Tiernan broke down following the tumultuous session of yesterday when she attempted to attack Poulin after he had denied the charges of paternity.

The question which precipitated the outbreak was put to Poulin during the examination.

"Did you ever go into a building at Notre Dame alone with Mrs. Tiernan?" attorneys asked.

"Certainly not," the dapper young haberdasher, replied.

"You're a liar! You're a liar!" Mrs. Tiernan shouted, jumping to her feet and attempting to hurl a handbag at the witness.

ATTORNEYS INTERVENE

Attorneys intervened and the witnesses with a gesture of annoyance, replied:

"Oh, sit down; you'll hear more than that before I am thru."

Practically the entire session was taken up with Poulin on the chair. He denied in detail all of the charges made by Mrs. Tiernan and Professor Tiernan. It was held that taking of testimony would be complete today.

"Were you ever guilty of any misconduct with Mrs. Tiernan at any time or place?" was another question asked.

"No, never," Poulin replied.

An attempt was made by the defense to show that Mrs. Tiernan was the aggressor toward Poulin.

"Tell us the circumstances surrounding your attendance at a moving picture show with Mrs. Tiernan in February, 1921," Poulin was asked.

"Mrs. Tiernan came into the store and said she was going to a moving picture show at the Oliver and asked me to go along. I told her I was busy. Later, I went up town to make an appointment with the dentist who had gone home. I had a few minutes and dropped in at the Oliver."

"I saw Mrs. Tiernan sitting there and sat down by her for about 25 minutes. I then went back to the store."

Poulin told of the first time Professor Tiernan accused him of being the father of Mrs. Tiernan's child.

"He met me in front of the post-office. 'What is it, John?' I asked him. 'Gus has told me everything. I assume our child is yours,' he replied."

"Why, you're crazy, John. There's absolutely nothing to it," I told him.

"I am going to demand that you make restitution, or I'll have you arrested," he said. He then demanded $100 for maternity bills and for the sustenance of the child."

Later Poulin was asked if he would submit to the blood test to determine the parentage of the child. Poulin's attorney interrupted and declared that the blood test was nonsense and "an insult to the court."

Regarding a bathing suit which he gave Mrs. Tiernan, Poulin said that salesman often left him samples when they passed thru the town and that the bathing suit was one of these.

"The suit was size 38. My wife does not swim and she suggested that I give it to Mrs. Tiernan who did not have one. So I exchanged it for a size 40 and gave it to her."

NEGRO DRAWS SUSPENDED PENALTY ON GUN CHARGE

W. Hunter, 34, colored, 1202 W. Spring-st., charged with carrying concealed weapons, pleaded guilty before Judge Jackson in criminal court Tuesday. He was fined $50 and sentenced to serve 30 days in the Toledo workhouse. A pistol found in his possession was confiscated.

Jackson suspended both fine and sentence with the understanding that Hunter attempt to purchase no more weapons. His arrest Monday followed his purchase of the weapon, observed by two officers.

He explained that he wanted the gun for protection. Jackson decided that he could get plenty of protection from the police department.

STICKS TO IDEA OF HOME INDUSTRY

WILMINGTON, Del. — Miss Maude Rhodes is the one woman who sticks to the idea of home industry which she and her fellow Single Taxers had in mind when they founded, at Arden, a picturesque colony of tiny cottages and shanties, embowered in flowers exemplifying their views.

Miss Rhodes has her own little flock of sheep and she herself weaves their wool, on a loom in her own small but artistic dwelling, into skirts and scarves which those who want them must call on her to buy.

"Women," she says, "should not have to enter the business life. It breaks their womanliness down. If they have livings to earn, they should earn them in their own homes, by weaving or by the arts and crafts."

"MISS AMERICA" BECOMING FAMOUS

SAILPLANE RISES FROM SEA

Curtiss Tells Story of Experiments With Glider

NEW YORK — (Special) — America has joined European nations in experimenting with the glider, the newest development in flying.

Tests made in German have started the world. French airmen have been successful to a lesser degree.

Now Glenn H. Curtiss, veteran airplane inventor (builder and flyer), has made the first glider tests in the United States, in the first glider ever built to take off from the water.

The world is asking the question: "Is the glider going to revolutionize flying?"

Curtiss predicts rapid strides in development, following his first tests with his glider—which he calls a "sailplane"—over Manhasset Bay, Long Island.

The preliminary trials of the glider have taught us a number of things. We have learned that the pull of the boat in the water is too great for the light tow line which is needed for any real altitude work.

We also found that a dead calm is a very poor time to experiment on soaring flight.

There was no wind at all during the first trials, and although we did get into the air on three occasions high enough to cut loose and make short glides, the best test was made on the return trip to Port Washington.

By this time the wind had come up to some extent and although we were traveling broadside to the wind we succeeded in getting the glider into the air immediately.

I rode for about two miles on the line, swinging off some 30 degrees as a result of the side wind.

Maneuvering about considerably, we gained at times on the motor boat and finally, when overtaken by a wind puff, I gained so much on the motor boat that the tow line disappeared behind me.

I was obliged then to cut loose in order to avoid the possibility of accident when the slack was taken up.

The releasing mechanism is somewhat complicated, as it is necessary to release two lines at once. These lines form a yoke and are so constructed that the tow line will not interfere with the action of the rudders. In other words the pull of the tow line is carried to a point near the center of gravity.

One of the tests in the early future will be to install a very low powered air-cooled motor. If we gain knowledge in the secret of soaring flight we can reduce our power accordingly and may ultimately be able to soar over the sea without a motor.

DOUBLE FUNERAL FOR VICTIMS

Bodies of Mrs. Hall and McClure Brought Home

Double funeral services for Mrs. Mary Hall, 68, Lafayette, and Lawrence D. McClure, 31, Lima, who met instant death Sunday when a Ft. Wayne, Van Wert & Lima traction car crashed into their auto at Ft. Wayne, will be held Wednesday afternoon at Lafayette.

The bodies were brought here Tuesday from Ft. Wayne. Mrs. Hall's body being taken to her home in Lafayette and McClure's to the home of his sister, Mrs. Ethel Wein, Spencerville.

No definite time for the services has been set by Mrs. Caroline McClure, mother of the dead man, and Mrs. Hall's relatives. The former has been living in Spencerville. Her son made his home at 809 N. Jackson-st., while employed as a teamster here.

Mrs. McClure and Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Wein and Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Wein of Spencerville, who narrowly escaped the same fate that overtook the two victims, arrived here Tuesday from Ft. Wayne.

They declared the condition of Joseph Hall, 73, husband of the dead woman, who occupied the machine with her and McClure and was seriously injured in the crash, is considerably improved. His left shoulder was broken in three places and he suffered a deep gash in the forehead.

ROAD CONSTRUCTION IS SLOW IN TWO ADJOINING COUNTIES, REPORTS SHOW

Because slow construction work on state roads renders completion this year improbable, two principal highways leading into Allen-co. from Auglaize-co. and Hardin-co. may be torn up thru the winter, Grover C. Clements, division engineer for the state highway department believes.

Information received by Clements from Hardin-co., shows that the Harding Highway work there is going too slow to be finished before winter.

Work on the Dixie Highway in Auglaize-co., isn't moving in ch. faster, reports state. North of Wapakoneta, about one mile of brick is in and south of town approximately an equal distance is finished.

Allen-co. motorists, in his opinion, will find travel a little rough along the roads named, if they venture beyond the county line. Indications are all work in Allen-co. will be finished.

Neither Hardin-co. or Auglaize-co. are under Clements' charge.

LIMIT PUT ON U. S. DRY AGENTS

Operations Are Confined to Three-Mile Area

WASHINGTON — (Associated Press) — The cabinet at its meeting today decided to restrict prohibition enforcement operations within the three-mile limit at sea except in cases where ships beyond that limit are in communication with shore thru their own crews and small boats. Prohibition enforcement officials, it was said authoritatively, would be cautioned to observe this decision.

The subject of searches for contraband liquor beyond the three-mile limit formed the principal topic of discussion before the cabinet. Examination of municipal law authorizing customs or other operations up to the twelve mile limit were found by the president's advisers to be out of harmony with international law and it was held that attempts to carry the municipal law provisions might involve the government in embarrassments with other countries.

It was brought out in the cabinet discussion that in the recent case of the British vessel, Grace and Aubrey, seized beyond the three mile limit, that court held this vessel to have been within American territorial waters in effect since she was in touch with shore by means of her own small boats. The decision to restrict operations of prohibition enforcement officials to similar cases beyond the three mile limit in future therefore was explained as in line with the court's action.

SPACE FOR JUDGE TO BE LEFT ON BALLOT

COLUMBUS — Secretary of State Smith announced today that an empty space will be provided on the judicial ballot in November in which names of candidates for the vacancy on the supreme bench caused by the resignation of Judge James G. Johnson may be written.

The vacancy was filled by Governor Davis' appointment of George H. Clark, of Canton, but this appointment is valid only until election day when a successor must be named to fill the remainder of the unexpired term, running from November 8 to January 1.

Secretary Smith sent out copies of the official state ballot to the 58 county boards of election today.

Windsor's entire population of 200 turned out to prevent destruction of the village.

CANADA TROUBLED BY RAILROADS

Recognizes System in Effort to Solve Transportation Problem

NOW ON BUSINESS BASIS

Public Ownership Supported With Much Faith

OTTAWA, Ont. — (Special) — In a determined effort to solve the national railways problem, which is eating tremendous holes in Canada's bank account, the Canadian government has made a clean sweep of the present management. It has installed a practical railway man as president and general manager, and has appointed a governing board of directors made up of prominent men representing the various sections of the country.

Canada's great experiment in national railway operation was undertaken as a matter of necessity. The country has owned for 40 years the Intercolonial Railway running from Montreal to Halifax and Sydney, Cape Breton, operating it with invariable loss but not sufficient to develop any public sentiment for its disposal.

During the financial crisis that accompanied the war, the Canadian Northern Railway, a complete continental system from Montreal to Vancouver, fell into financial difficulties. Rather than face a panic that might have followed a receivership, the government which was the chief creditor of the road took it over.

OTHER LINES FOLLOWED

Shortly afterwards the Grand Trunk Pacific, built less than ten years ago as an extension of the old Grand Trunk across the prairies to Prince Rupert, also defaulted on its bond interest, which, for the most part, had been guaranteed by the government. The parent Grand Trunk, being legally liable for the Grand Trunk Pacific's debts, after a period of arbitration, joined the other lines on the government doorstep.

The Canadian government now operates a transportation system that includes two complete transcontinental railways, built as competing lines and largely duplicating each other, making a total mileage of over 21,000 miles. While the Canadian Pacific Railway which also runs parallel for a large part of the route has continually made money and paid its dividends, the government system has been operating at a huge deficit amounting, with interest charges, to over $100,000,000 per year, or more than the total receipts from the Dominion income tax.

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP FAVORED

This has aroused an active movement in favor of turning the system over to private operation. But public ownership in several of the provinces, notably in Ontario and the West, is supported with such faith, that any government which would eliminate the national railways from public control would be open to suspicion and attack.

The present Liberal administration has announced that it proposes to give government ownership a fair trial under the very best of possible conditions and await the results before framing any alternative policy.

ALLIED STAND IS INDORSED BY U. S.

Demand for Freedom of Dardanelles Approved

WASHINGTON — (Associated Press) — The unequivocal approval by the Washington government of allied proposals to insure freedom of the Dardanelles and the Bosphorus and also to protect racial and religious minorities in Turkish territories involved in the present Near Eastern situation was expressed by Secretary Hughes today in reply to an inquiry addressed to him by the Associated Press.

The question submitted sought to ascertain "the attitude of the government of the United States toward the proposals made by the allies to the Turkish Nationalist authorities." Mr. Hughes declined to comment on the territorial questions raised but made clear the attitude of the administration on the other points involved.

"The American government is gratified," said Mr. Hughes, "to observe that the proposal of the three allied governments seeks to insure effectively the liberty of the Dardanelles, the sea of Marmora and the Bosphorus as well as protection of racial and religious minorities. These points of the proposal are clearly in accord with American sentiment."

"This government also trusts that suitable arrangement may be agreed upon in the interest of peace to preserve the freedom of the straits pending a conference to conclude a final treaty of peace between Turkey, Greece and the allies."

CARS SOUGHT TO MOVE OHIO COAL

Delegation Visits Washington in Interest of Fuel

APPEAL IS MADE TO SPENS

Product's Movement in State is Closely Watched

WASHINGTON — (United Press) — Attorney General J. G. Price of Ohio, Bryant J. Neal, Ohio coal administrator, and Frank H. Baez, traffic manager of the Cleveland chamber of commerce, arrived here today to take up with Federal Fuel Distributor Conrad Spens the question of arranging more equitable distribution of cars to obtain better prices for Ohio coal mines.

The delegation, prior to visiting Spens called at the White House to pay their respects to President Harding.

FUEL WATCHED

COLUMBUS — (United Press) — Every pound of fuel mined or sold in Ohio during the present fuel crisis will be watched from its entry into the market to its final destination, in the bins of the consumers, according to plans of the state fuel administration, it was announced today.

Administrator Neal's plans contemplate a system of comprehensive reports from every agency concerned in production and distribution of coal.

Producers will be required to report how much coal is mined, how much loaded, to whom it is consigned and the price received for it.

Wholesalers reports will show how much coal is received from whom received, to whom sold and the price.

Retailers will have to report the source of their supply and the price they sell for. They will be permitted to lump their transactions in each kind of coal each day.

These daily reports will enable the fuel administration to keep in direct touch with the situation and thus tell whether any one, from producer down the line, is "fouling" the consumer.

Blank forms necessary for these reports, are now being prepared and will be ready for distribution in a few days.

Neal, Attorney General Price and Traffic Director Baez, in Washington today were to confer with Federal Administrator Spens when they will ask the federal authorities to cooperate directly with the state fuel administration in dealing with Ohio's problems.

EVANS TRANSFERRED

Ernest S. Evans, internal revenue inspector connected with the Cleveland office and who has been working in this territory, has been transferred to the Boston district. He will work for the department during the day and attend a technical school at night.

SPENDING POWER OF U. S. GROWS

Increased Employment Expansion and Wage Boost.

BUSINESS SINEWS AMPLE

Other Side of Trade Shown by Forbes, However.

(BY B. C. FORBES)
NEW YORK.—(Special).—What may we expect the final quarter of the year to bring forth business-wise?

My one-sentence reply would be: Moderate improvement despite various threatened developments of an unsettling nature.

What are some of these threatened developments?

Well, the November voting is not likely to cause financial or business hilarity.

The German volcano may burst into eruption. Germany cannot long continue manufacturing billions of paper currency daily without bringing on a crisis, especially as prices are being marked up more rapidly than wages. The reichbank has raised its discount rate to 8 per cent, the highest figure in fifteen years.

Turkey's fresh uprising against treatment accorded her by the Allies is causing widespread uneasiness. It is possible, of course, that really serious warfare may be precipitated; but, somehow, I can't take a panicky view of this situation.

Scarcity of coal may cause some inconvenience and dislocation.

Railway congestion may prove a real handicap to industrial expansion, the marketing of crops and business in general.

The new tariff law is fraught with unpleasant possibilities.

After the November elections, Washington may again alarm the financial and business world by taking up the bonus anew.

And wholly unforeseen events may, of course, occur at any moment to cause acute uneasiness.

Rather a sobering list, isn't it?

Favorable should outweigh unfavorable developments during the last three months of the year.

The world's 1922 yield of wheat is far from excessive, so that our farmers should obtain better prices than those which lately ruled.

Satisfactory prices for the crops would do more than any other one thing to stimulate and solidify business prosperity in this country.

The world's supplies of cotton are light, and all indications are that the South will experience improving times thru the receipts of profitable prices for its chief product.

The spending power of this country has been greatly increased during recent months thru the very notable expansion in employment, while the rising tendency in wages is also a factor to be taken into reckoning.

Thanks to the long period of abundant surplus funds, business leaders and business enterprises have been able to raise enormous amounts of capital to take care of plans for expansion. This availability of the sinews of business is, in fact, a consideration of momentous importance. Should money rates become firmer, it will be mainly because of demands to handle greater industrial and business activity and, consequently, ought to be regarded as an encouraging sign. Most authorities predict the continuance of low money rates in Wall Street and elsewhere, so that my opinion that rates are likely to become distinctly firmer is probably worthless. Incidentally, stock exchange loans were marked up last week, call money going to 6 per cent.

That stocks of merchandise in most lines are extremely light is being daily emphasized by the unusual number of hurry-up orders received. It is entirely possible that the upward trend of prices now under way will suddenly cause a stampede of buyers. While this would give business a drastic impetus, it would foster attempts at renewed inflation and, if carried far, would entail disagreeable consequences. If we are to have the right kind of prosperity, all trade interests, from manufacturer to retailer, must resist temptation to exact unnecessarily high prices. Everything considered, I feel that there is almost as much danger to be apprehended from excited buying as from unduly restricted buying between now and the end of the year.

Railroad earnings are on the increase. The iron and steel industry is becoming distinctly jittery, at advancing prices for a number of products. The building boom can be noticed on all sides—although rising costs threaten to modify it. The settlement of the coal and railway and textile strikes is having a stimulating influence. The re-opening of the vast Ford plants is encouraging.

HE WAS TOLD HE COULD NOT LIVE

Says He Surely Has to Thank Plant Juice Since it Relieved Bad Stomach

WILL RETURN TO HIS WORK

"After being told that I could not live because of an ulcerated condition of my stomach, I think it is the most remarkable thing in the world the way Plant Juice relieved my trouble and gave me back good health."

DAVID MORTIMORE

This surprising testimonial was given to The Plant Juice Man when he was at Toledo, Ohio, recently by Mr. David Mortimore, of 837 Fredrick street, Toledo. The Plant Juice Man is now in Lima at Hunter's drug store, 49 Public Square, where he is daily introducing and explaining his unusual new remedy that is made from the juices of plant life.

"I began to suffer with my stomach about eight years ago," Mr. Mortimore continued. "I was troubled badly with gas on my stomach and bloated so much and was in such distress that I couldn't sleep. There were many foods I could not eat at all. Last October I got so bad I had to quit work and by December I was in such poor condition that my life was despaired of. I even got to thinking myself that I was about done for because I had taken all kinds of medicines and treatments without improvement and I was about ready to give up."

"Then I heard about Plant Juice and decided to make a final attempt to get relief and it surely was a lucky move for me because I can honestly say that Plant Juice has made me feel better than for years."

The day I bought my first bottle of Plant Juice I was hardly able to be out but when I started taking the medicine I could quickly see a difference and now I feel like a new man. I can eat foods now that I do not believe I could have eaten before and continued to live. I can even eat meat now without any trouble afterward and I sleep fine and simply feel improved in every way."

"I'm feeling so well that I'm going back to my old job next Monday morning and it will be the first work I've done for months. It's almost unbelievable what Plant Juice did for me and I'm only too glad to recommend this medicine to the general public."

The Plant Juice Man is at Hunter's drug store, 49 Public Square, Lima, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given.

Plant Juice is sold also in Lima at Hunter's drug store at Main and Wayne streets and at the Argonne drug store, opposite Post Office.

Equipment companies are booking much business. The shoe, lumber, copper, lead, woolen and a host of other industries are doing better and promise to continue to do better.

The stock market has creditably withstood recent shocks. Dividend increases are certain to play a part in fostering speculative activity in both the transportation and industrial developments, whether after its long-sustained rise, the market will undergo a distinctly sharper reaction that it has yet experienced is a question one hesitates to attempt to answer.

Bond prices are virtually at the highest level of the year. It is a good time for new financing and for refunding of high-interest-bearing obligations. The possibilities of firmer money should be ignored.

That the final three months of the year will witness distinctly better times than were enjoyed in the first three months of the year is certain.

Burton Explains War Debt Situation in London Speech

LOANS OF AMERICAN PEOPLE

Declares Burden of Taxation at Home Heavy

LONDON — (Associated Press) — The disposition of the people of the United States is to require payment of the interest on the loans to America. Representative Theodore Burton of Cleveland, declared in an address today at a luncheon given by the American Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Burton who emphasized that he was speaking as an individual and not as a member of the American debt funding commission or as a congressman, said these conditions had contributed toward arrival at this conclusion.

First was the feeling that international credit and especially debts between nations "have a certain degree of sanctity—I might say of sacredness."

BURDEN HEAVY IN U. S.

The second consideration was that the amounts loaned to the foreign countries by the United States were provided by loans obtained from the people and with no small degree of difficulty. The advances were not from an overflowing revenue, but were made possible by the action of the United States in becoming a borrower alike with these countries and at the same time. The burden of taxation in America, he declared, was quite as heavy, if not heavier than that in the European countries whose obligations were held by the United States.

In case of cancellation of these debts, he asked, what assurance is there that the resources which otherwise would be applied upon the debt payments might not be utilized for the expansion of military and naval establishments and thus create an ever-present threat of future conflict and destruction.

ADVANCES AFTER WAR

A very considerable fraction of the advances made were after the actual close of the war and were for the rehabilitation and the creation of new enterprises rather than for the prosecution of war in a time of great emergency. "It must be said that at the time these loans were made the legislation authorizing them and popular expectation both alike contemplated payment. In the war itself the United States was not subjected to the same surpassing dangers as her allies and in peace she sought no acquisition of territory. Large indemnities were not expected by her. "I cannot too strongly emphasize the fact that the only effective means for payment of the debts and healing of the economic life of the nations must depend upon progressing disarmament and the maintenance of peace."

GRAND JURY MAY TAKE EXTRA DAY

Investigating Body Expected to Complete Work Thursday

Session of the Allen-co grand jury called to consider upward of 40 criminal cases, went to its second day Tuesday, with prospects of holding over until Thursday.

Less than one third of the witnesses subpoenaed to appear, were examined on Monday. On opening day of the session, more than 100 known witnesses are to testify.

All witnesses not needed for Tuesday's session were excused early in the day by Prosecuting Attorney Eugene T. Lippincott, with instructions to appear on Wednesday.

Consideration of the Halloran shooting, for which Otis Hines, no longer a resident, may be delayed to the last day. But two eye witnesses are to appear for the state in the matter. Hines may be called to tell his version of the affair to the jury. It is expected that the matter will be disposed of quickly.

BRIDGE NEARLY READY

Spreading of timbers at the approaches of the Metcalf-st bridge will be completed in time to open the bridge for traffic Thursday, Vaughn Miller, city engineer, believes.

He hoped to have it open by Tuesday but difficulty in obtaining timbers is said to have held up the work.

SUTTER AWAITING STATE AID

Delay in Receiving Funds Threatens Health Work

Receipt of $1,000, due in July as half the state's share for maintaining health work in the Allen-co district for the current year, is anxious by awaited by J. S. Sutter, health commissioner. J. J. Sutter, who says the program will be halted unless it is received soon.

Practically all funds available this year have been used, Sutter says. The combined county and state money totaled more than $5,400 and the state's first appropriation of $1,000 in January was made according to schedule.

Action is expected soon by the commissioner, who believes that the budget of $150,000 in state health funds was inadequate to care for needs of all counties because of the great demand of the "wet" districts, some of which have health work maintained almost wholly by the state, amounting sometimes to $20,000 per year.

Sutter admitted his department may as well close up shop, if the money is not forthcoming soon, but he has learned that it will in all probability be available by October 1.

Part of the salary of Sutter and his assistants is wrapped up in the delinquent payment.

CHILD'S CHOICE ALLOWED BY COURT; FATHER LOSES

Cleo Click, 14, daughter of Clinton Click, Marion, will continue to reside with her grandmother, judges of the court of appeals decided in refusing to grant a writ of habeas corpus placing the child in care of her father.

Cleo went to live with her mother, Mrs. Frances Click, when her parents were divorced. After her mother's death, she made her home with Mrs. Agnes Mack, her grandmother.

"Who do you want to live with?" the judges asked Cleo.

"With my grandma," said the girl.

The court decided her choice would be respected.

HEALTH BOARD TO DISCUSS MEAT AND MILK PROBLEMS AT MEETING TUESDAY NIGHT

Posting of milk regulations in all local dispensaries of dairy products and selection of a meat inspector, as well as the regular reports of the health commissioner and inspectors are scheduled for the regular meeting of the city board of health Thursday night.

Dr. J. B. Poling, city health physician, will ask the board's approval of a plan to provide greater milk supervision by having the regulations printed on durable material and conspicuously posted.

Need of a meat inspector is greatly felt in Lima. Poling has found, especially to eliminate the danger from tuberculin cattle.

The commissioner will suggest a variety of plans. Inspection of meat at a central point has been spoken of following its success in other cities, but it is not believed this feature will be introduced here as long as ample inspection can be held at the separate establishments of meat distribution.

EFFICIENCY MACHINES ARE BOUGHT FOR WATERWORKS

Purchase of an addressograph for the waterworks department has been announced by Harry N. Oswood, city purchaser. It is to be used in making quarterly statements to patrons.

Adoption of a new type postcard for the accounts and a folder record for the tabulation of the accounts was announced at the same time.

The postcards are so devised they will fit in the addressograph and eliminate writing names by hand.

Spaces for the charges are coordinated with those of the folder record. A billing machine was purchased recently for the department and as a result it will be a very easy matter to make out the statements for the 10,000 customers each quarter. Under the new system very few mistakes will be seen, it is believed.

PUDDLING FURNACES TO REOPEN THURSDAY

YOUNGSTOWN.—The A. M. Byers Company at Girard will resume operations at capacity Thursday morning, except for its rolling mill which will resume Monday. It was announced today. The remainder of the puddling furnaces, 46 in number, will start Thursday employing over 300 men. All of the 8 puddling furnaces will then be in operation. The plant's blast furnace was blown in last week.

GIRL NOT SHOT BY BANK ROBBERS

Injury to Pennsylvania Miss, Patient Here, Slight

Efforts to connect the wounding of Miss Tess Polhamus, 19, Rochester, Pa., now a patient at St. Rita's hospital here, with the bandits who shot and killed the cashier of Hope bank Monday, were scouted by Lima police Tuesday when it was definitely determined that the girl was shot more than 24 hours before the attempted bank robbery.

Physicians attending Miss Polhamus declared her injury to be a mere flesh wound. The bullet struck her in the thigh it is believed to have glanced up from the road.

Miss Polhamus was injured after the machine in which she was riding to Lima from her home suffered a blowout. She hailed a passing machine to ask for help. A man in the car arose and fired a shot towards her, she declared. The machine then sped on. The shooting took place near Wooster, O.

Immediate medical attention was given Miss Polhamus before her party proceeded to Lima. When they arrived here Monday, Miss Polhamus was taken to St. Rita's hospital where the bullet was removed.

Miss Polhamus was coming to Lima with Mrs. Ray Snider, 515 W. McKibben-st., Lima, Mrs. R. K. Snyder, Rochester, Pa., and Glen and Dale Our, of Rochester.

NEW STREETS INSPECTED BY ASSESSING BOARD

An inspection of Cataips, Kentworth, Pierce, Rosedale and Jameson paving jobs, recently completed, was made by the assessing board Tuesday morning.

In company with Vaughn Miller, city engineer, the board looked over the work and obtained an idea as to the location of the property and the best method to pursue in assessing the street.

A meeting to figure the assessments was scheduled for late Tuesday afternoon or evening. It is hoped to have the assessing ordinances ready for passage at the next meeting of the city commission.

THREE TAKE JOBS

Seven Others Decline Judge Jackson's Work Offer

Only three out of ten men who were inmates of the city jail Tuesday morning, accepted jobs, in preference to serving out sentences and paying fines.

Judge Emmett Jackson of criminal court, confronted by the problem of disposing of the men whom he had ordered into the city bastille on drunk charges, had decided to try to find them work.

Contractors working on the Dixie highway south of Lima offered to take on any men whom the judge would release to them.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

Jackson lined up the ten prisoners before a representative of the firm, Thursday morning, informed them of his decision and asked which of them were willing to go to work.

George Miller, Troy; Joe Garry, Detroit; and Bill Coffey, Vine-st and Greenlaw-st., all serving out fines for drunkenness, jumped at the opportunity. The seven others decided to remain in jail.

Jackson turned the three over to the road builders after informing them that further payment on their fines would be suspended pending their good behavior.

TRAFFIC RULES IN U. S. BEST

Safety Regulations Are Praised by English Press

YANK CRITICISM INVITED

Papers Object to "Mutual Admiration Business"

LONDON—(Associated Press)—American visitors to London, especially prominent ones, are inclined to say pleasant things to their hosts and Englishmen are not disinclined to listen. The latest example of this was given by former Governor Cox, of Ohio, who is quoted in the Daily Mail as saying some very pleasing things about London as a city.

But would it not be better all around, asks the Daily Chronicle, if they would give us some constructive criticism? Lamenting the frequency of accidents on London streets this paper says:

Why doesn't London imitate New York, which now leads the world in traffic regulations? It is perhaps too much to hope for a system of signal boxes, semaphores and colored lights that make Fifth Avenue a model of safety and efficient traffic regulation. But at least we could follow New York's examples in forbidding pedestrians to cross the roadway at dangerous crossings until the point policeman has arranged a fairway and given permission to cross. This rule is so strictly carried out that even the New York messenger boy does not infringe it.

UNIVERSAL RULE

Another rule that is universal in America and Canada compels all motor traffic to stop dead until a tram car has discharged and taken up its passengers and started off again. Why this rule is not adopted in England it is impossible to imagine.

It is nice to have Americans come here and throw lovely bouquets at us," said an English writer, "but I think they would do us more good if they occasionally told us pointblank of some of the things they find wrong with us. This mutual admiration business that goes on now is not good for either of us."

SCRAP OF PAPER MAY CONVICT 3

Note to Play Part in Movie Duel
Murder Trial

LEFT BY JACK BERGEN

Story of Hackensack, N. J., Killing is Told

(BY BOB DORMAN)
HACKENSACK, N. J.—(Special).
—From the fingers of dying Jack Bergen, daredevil of the movies, fell a crumpled piece of paper.

On it was scrawled: "George Cline killed me."

Will that torn and wrinkled piece of paper send the man to the electric chair?

Will the ramifications of the tale of which those scrawled words were only the beginning put a 19-year-old girl and a 21-year-old boy behind the drab walls of a state's prison for the rest of their days?

"Finis" will be written to this tragedy when George Cline, Charles Scullion and Alice Thornton face a jury in the courthouse here, charged with murder.

This is the story of the killing of Jack Bergen:

CHAPTER I

On the night of Aug. 25, a taxi driver, called to the Cline home in Edgewater, N. J., heard two shots.
Scared, he drove off and returned with a policeman. On the sidewalk lay Bergen bleeding from a bullet through the body. He was taken to the station house. There he pulled out a crumpled piece of paper from his pocket—and died.

On that paper was scribbled:
"George Cline killed me."

Cline, immediately taken into custody, stated that during an arrangement in which he accused Bergen of attacking his wife, the movie daredevil started to fight. Cline says he shot in self-defense.

CHAPTER II

The day following his arrest,
Cline changed his story.

It became a movie thriller.

He said that he had challenged Bergen to a duel, gave him a revolver with which to defend himself and then drove him upstairs to fight it out. While turning out the light s, that the duel could take place in the dark, Cline said Bergen tried to flee at him. Then men grappled. During the struggle, according to Cline's story, the revolver was discharged, and Bergen was shot.

He said that the challenge to the duel had been made after Bergen had declared his love for Mrs. Cline in her presence and that of her two brothers, Charles and Lawrence, Scullion.

CHAPTER III

The prosecutor's office continued its investigation and found that Miss Alice Thornton, an attractive blond, 19 years old, had been in the Cline home during the night of the shooting. She was an acquaintance of Bergen.

She admitted that it was she who had talked to Cline of his wife and Bergen.

Peaved at the signs of affection between the movie actor and Mrs.
Cline which he had witnessed, the girl had broken with Bergen. Cline had tried to bring them together.

At a dance she told him of his friend's perfidy.

"You can't trust your friend Jack," she said. The explanation followed.

Cline too, it calmly. He made no move until that fatal night.

On Cline's invitation she visited the Cline home to confront Bergen with her story of his duplicity.

CHAPTER IV

Detectives found that it was Charles Scullion who handed Cline the gun with which he drove Bergen upstairs.

Scullion's indictment and arrest quickly followed.

Then came the arrest of Miss Thornton, charged with murder.

CHAPTER V

On Sept. 13, Cline, Scullion and Miss Thornton were arraigned before Justice Parker in the Supreme Court at Hackensack. They all pleaded "not guilty."

George Cline is accused of the actual shooting. Miss Thornton with having lured Bergen to the home of Cline, and Scullion as the man who at Cline's request went upstairs and obtained the pistol.

Cline's defense will be that Bergen shot himself in the struggle.

CHAPTER VI

The last chapter will be written when the case comes to trial on Oct.
9.

PREPARE PLANE FOR CROSS COUNTRY TRIP

SAN DIEGO, Cal. — Mechanics have begun installing a new liberty motor in the great monoplane in which Lieutenants John A. Mac Ready and Oakley Kelly, of the army, will attempt a non-stop flight from San Diego to New York in a few days. It is believed it will take three days to get the gigantic machine ready for its first trial flight here.

It takes a runway of about a mile and a half to attain sufficient speed to get the craft into the air.
The time of the start and the exact route to be traversed have not been made public, but aviators here believe that the route will be as nearly direct as possible. The two airmen, who will take turns piloting the monoplane, say that its speed will exceed 100 miles an hour on the transcontinental flight, despite any storms that may be met.

politics and during the past four as wielding the strongest political

"The Sage of McDuffie," as he was known by his followers throught the state, built up his political strength thru his publications.
When the government stopped his two papers during the war, he soon was publishing the Columbia Sentinel. This weekly paper has been devoted to discussion of state and national politics and during the senator's residence in Washington often contained accounts of his daily

SHIPPING FACILITIES TO SOUTH NOW GOOD

Lima dealer's shipping southward on the B. & O. will experience very few restrictions henceforth, according to L. B. Colbert, freight agent.
Following general orders received here to give precedence to coal cars, north bound shipments have been curtailed only to necessary commodities in car-load lots, due to the fact that nearly all of the coal is shipped north from the mines in lower Ohio and Virginia.

Freight shipped south is practically unrestricted.

COUPLE SLAIN BY HIRED ASSASSIN

Conclusion of Detectives in New Brunswick Case

TOOL OF JEALOUS WOMAN

Pair Shot While Sitting on Park Bench

(BY CARL VICTOR LITTLE)
NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J.—(United Press).—A weak-willed man—willing tool of a jealous woman—murdered the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs. James Mills, his devoted co-worker in the church of St.
John the Evangelist, authorities concluded today.

The two were shot as they sat on a lonely park bench near the Phillips farm where their bodies were found under an apple tree, according to the startling disclosures of detectives who have worked incessantly on the strange case.

Scratches on the face of Mrs. Mills, wife of the janitor of the aristocratic church, whose rector was the millinaire Rev. Edward Hall, were clawed after she had been killed, according to this theory.

JEALOUSY STANDS OUT

The jealous woman, not content in causing the death of the singer and minister, even sought vengeance after death, detectives stated, and desecrated the bodies.

Prosecutor Stricker stated that he and his operatives have thrown every motive for the crime, except the one of jealousy, into the discard.

The fact that several witnesses have testified that they heard two women scream the night of the crime strengthened this belief, authorities said.

One of the screams came from Mrs. Mills, the victim, and the other from the jealous woman.

Detectives in the case, who have spent years in studying criminology, as applied to women, believe that the jealous woman induced a man to commit the crime for her, pointing to the fact that few women have the training to kill two persons in such a manner.

PAIRS RESTING PLACE

After the assassination on the lonely park bench, which according to prominent men and women of the community, the Rev. Hall and Mrs.
Mills frequently used as a resting place, the bodies were dragged along the earth to the apple tree.

The belief that the Rev. Hall was slain by robbers for the large sum of money and watch he possessed, has been entirely discounted.

Authorities now believe that his vanishing were taken by ghouls who violated the sanctity of the dead soon after the crime.

The finding of the watch and wallet, it was pointed out, would not lead to the identity of the slayer.

Mrs. Hall today gave up her life of seclusion in the mansion in which she installed the minister when they were married. She was seen frequently driving on the streets in one of her two costly motor cars.

sided at the opening business meeting here today of the fifth annual state convention of Kiwanis clubs of the Ohio district. Mayor George P.
Carol and C. W. Loughhead, president of the Cincinnati Kiwanis club, were on the program for addresses of welcome.

Conference of trustees, presidents and secretaries were held last night. T. E. McIlhenny, Zanesville, ees, Roy F. Nesbit, at the conference of presidents, and E. M. Farris,

ELECTION CASE IS UP BEFORE SUPREME COURT

COLUMBUS — Members of the state supreme court displayed unusual interest in the arguments of counsel today in the rehearing of the Cincinnati Election case in which the court had previously ruled that candidates for municipal offices in municipalities of more than 2,000 must be nominated at regular party primaries and cannot be nominated by petition.

The law specifies that candidates for state, county and district offices may be nominated by petition, but does not mention municipal offices.

JUDGE EASTMAN
TO HEAR CASES

Ottawa Jurist to Sit on Second
Common Pleas Bench

Common Pleas Judge E. R. Eastman, Ottawa, will be the first outside judge to sit in Lima after a second common pleas court is opened to clear off the docket.

Eastman will spend three weeks in Lima hearing cases, according to Judge Fred C. Becker, and will then be succeeded by another judge to come later.

Furniture for the second court room was ordered by Judge Becker Tuesday. The fixtures were ordered from Mansfield, Ohio. The furniture will include 18 swivel chairs for the jurors and attorneys, a chair and desk for the judge, a chair and desk for the court reporter, and a table for the attorneys.

Old benches now in the assembly hall are to be refinished and repaired for the occupancy of spectators.

Court will open in the second room
November 13. Establishment of a second court was necessitated because of the number of cases pending in court, more than 400 matters are awaiting trial, some of which have been pending for several years.

MAN IS SWINDLED

Loses $200 to Smooth Stranger,
He Tells Police

Swindled out of $200 freshly drawn from his savings account in a Lima building and loan association, John Rafaj, 1400 Norval-av., sought police aid Tuesday to regain his money.

Appealing tales of high paying governmental position to which he had access for any man were told Rafaj by a stranger who failed to reveal his identity, a complaint to police headquarters shows.

Rafaj listened, fascinated by the opportunity to win a place that would pay him $200 a month.

Then the stranger sprung his gag.
It would take $200 to insure position for Rafaj, the victim told police the stranger declared.

He immediately drew the money out of his savings account, gave it to the stranger and—

Money and the stranger disappeared.

Rafaj described the man as being about 35 years of age, wearing a soft brown hat, dark clothes and black shoes.

Colest sewer were opened by

FORD'S RAILROAD HAS DEFICIT

Income Increases but Expenses
Eat up Profits

A deficit of $16,867 was seen in the net operating revenues of the D. T. & I. railroad during the month of July, figures made public in New York show.

Gross operating revenue decreased from $304,632 in June to $283,379 in July, the statement asserts, and at the same time maintenance costs rose to a higher figure than ever before.

In one year maintenance costs have increased nearly 100 per cent.
In July 1921 $192,995 was expended while in July 1922 the amount spent was $358,785.

Increase in traffic has been drawing heavily upon equipment and now it must be repaired or replaced, it is believed, and the steady profit shown in the past may be reduced considerably.

For the first seven months of 1922 the net income totals $689,151 as compared with $334,634 for the same period in 1921. This is a gain of $354,517 for the period. Losses during the balance of the year may decrease the amount however, it is pointed out.

SALARY INCREASE FOR SEALER NOW PROPOSED

An increase in the pay of the sealer of weights and measures may be considered by the city commission at its next meeting. It was stated at the city hall Tuesday.

At the present time the job carries a salary of $75 a month but it is impossible to obtain a sufficiently trained man at that figure, it was said, and it is desired to raise the salary to $100 a month.

A man can be obtained for the latter amount who will furnish his own automobile. It is believed enough scales can be tested to bring the revenue up to $150 a month, making the city a profit.

REPORT OF AUDITOR IS DELAYED BY STATE BOARD

Failure of the state bureau of accounting to send proper blanks forced County Auditor C. R. Phillips to make application before Judge Fred C. Becker Tuesday for an extension of time to make out his annual report for the fiscal year ending August 31.

The report must be made out annually on report blanks furnished for the purpose by the state. Philip-ps, in his application for an extension of time, stated that he had been unable to make up the report because of the bureau's delay.

HIGH RENTS

RAPIDLY mounting rents are driving writers and artists out of their colony, Greenwich Village in New York.

A small room formerly a horse stable, is turned into a studio at $200 a month rent. This is said to be a typical case. Such a sum, obviously, is beyond the means of the artist or writer struggling for recognition.

Why don't the artists and writers move to the country? you ask. They say they have to be near their market to get orders for their work.

A great fuss is being made over the situation by the Authors' League of America. The fuss will help advertise Greenwich Village and attract more tourists to its carefully-staged tea rooms, cabarets and other points of commercialized Bohemianism. This will bring more money to the village. Then rents will go up again.

TOO bad, of course, that rents are high for the temperamental residents of Greenwich Village. They will not attract much sympathy, however, because nearly every one in New York and other big cities is also in the clutches of high rents.

The bigger and more congested our cities grow, the more it becomes obvious that the real problem of city life is rent.

It is rent that has compelled the use of elevators, tall buildings, small rooms, and the vanishing of the big yard that should be around every home.

Each year the rent problem in cities grows worse.

MANY theories and suggestions have been advanced, to reduce rents generally. When all is said and done, high rent is the penalty of living in cities.

It follows, logically, that the way to escape from high rent is to get out of the city. Rapid transit is the route of escape. And the ideal form of rapid transit is the airplane.

When airplanes become fool-proof, safe, speedy, compact and cheap, cities will become collections of factories, theaters and shops. People will live far out in the country and travel back and forth by planes.

The greatest value of the airplane eventually will be in bringing cheaper rent. Obviously, it is to the selfish interest of every American to do everything in his power to assist the development of flying craft.

The flying machine will free the city man from high rent, just as the railroad and auto have freed the farmer from isolation.

RESPONSIBILITY

AMOTHER in an eastern city sues neighbors for $5,000 damages, claiming that they taught her child to swear.

Rare cases like this are attempts to fix responsibility at its source. The idea could be applied many ways. It should be.

The man who, crazed by bootleg liquor, commits a murder, usually is not as guilty as the criminal who sold the liquor. The drug vender, by all rules of common sense, is responsible for most of the crime committed by drug addicts.

Inciting to crime is on a par with inciting to riot.

JOURNEY

THE New Yorker, who started for San Francisco in a "plastic behemoth" drawn by seven mules two years ago, reaches Colorado. He should arrive at destination early in 1924.

Editorial writers then will point out how he could have made the trip in a few days by airplane. Much will be said about the wonders of modern transportation, compared with grandpa's day.

However, if you had your choice, you'd prefer the slow trip behind oxen, camping along the way. Most of us are speed in mind, due to our nerves, though we know that real happiness is not by speed. People were happier before they had "modern wonders."

FORESIGHT

WHEN high tariff goes into effect, consumers discover that the tariff duties are added to what they pay for imported goods. That sets the new price, and the seller who brought goods in ahead of the tariff in most cases can pocket the duty as extra profit.

Several hundred million dollars worth of foreign-made goods have been rushed into the United States and stored in warehouses "ahead of the tariff." This is foresight, the cunning ability that makes poor men rich and rich men richer. Foresight and luck build nine out of ten big fortunes. Few realize this, because from youth we are raised on the false philosophy of platonides. True life comes usually by brain development, only occasionally as a natural gift. That's why no one can get too much of any kind of schooling.

POISON

MEDICATED rubbing alcohol, loaded with poisons to make it unfit for internal use, is bought by bootleggers. Pettit, federal rum agent in Boston, finds two huge plants used by bootleggers to "purify" medicated alcohol. None of these amateur chemists ever gets all the poison out. This should be as vivid a warning as a red lantern at a railroad crossing. But the man with a thirst seems willing to take any chance.

"WHITE-MULE"

MOONSHINE whisky, currently known as "white-mule," is constantly selling on a bigger scale. Drinkers have the false notion that moonshine is "pure stuff; it's just raw whisky, unaged."

If they could talk with an old Kentucky mountaineer moonshiner, he would tell them that "white-mule" is a poison, unfit to drink, unless it is triple-distilled — put thru the still three times. Very few bootleggers go to the trouble.

There's too much being said and printed these days about man's inalienable right to work where he pleases and for whatever he kin get by those who need it. First two reels at the theater last evening as the band held a burglar till the constable quoted Reporter: "Up betimes, and before daybreak for a long breakfast appetizer. Out Allentownway. Thence to Homeaces counting dues on the Penny from Jameson-av mealward. Breakfasted to eat meal and fried bacon. So abroad, all happy and gay. In the poste, greetings from a New York journalist inviting me anon to join a press club. Non-resident dues accepted, with thanks. And a chance to use writing paper and the wash room when in New York. So to the office, and sat. Many phone messages telling me of the death of Miss Belle Harrington. And the green house I couldn't remember was occupied by the Coss family. All the morning at this and that, yet making no headway, methinks. And the first of the month coming so fast anon.

Walked out in the brave, but cool sunshine, greeting Col. Gale, the stamp dealer, and George Mahaffey, the banker. Lunched with the Roanoke-ians at Harry's Place. And the least of course was army soup. Hitting safely for two bases, and making way for roast beef and beans. Peach pie was at bat when I was called out, for interfering with the buss boy. Saw Don Campbell, the journalist, and Manager Ashe of Vapo Stove fame. Strolled down Lewis-av with George E. Bayly, the banker, who just bot a Boston pup. And building a bungalow for him. Waved to Ora Green, the fast contractor. Who drives to Celina in 45 minutes. Looks at the count house. Drives back, hardly being missed by his office force. Until he is in again. Like Finnigan.

In the afternoon, chugged about the towns, ending thru Cridersville and seeing how as the Dixie Highway rapidly nears completion. Wound in thru dear old Perry-tp, which kindly gave Supt. John Collins 186 new school pupils. After Eighth-st was acquired. And no where to put 'em but in tents and on the roofs. Kiddies still playing in Lincoln park, but not wading. Out past the new reservoir, where the fish won't bite.

Pointed out Lost creek to my wife; but she couldn't see it. Drove past my future home in Bath-tp, on the Lafayette-rd. And via of the detour to Beaverdam. West Cairo looking healthy, and their cocoa cola well liked. Visited Gomer in its primeval quiet, comfortable ease. Looped over to Kemp and in on the Spencerville-rd. In the evening, dined at Mrs. Diamond's cozy cafeteria, the food well cooked and tasty. To a cinema, but not much entertained. So home and to bed.

COMMON SENSE WAYS TO KEEP WELL
IT ISN'T OVERWORK

By DR. R. H. BISHOP

So much is heard nowadays of "overworking."

This business man is all run down from overworking, or that college girl has ruined her health from too much study.

Most people, however, who are "overworked," are, properly speaking, simply the victims of bad diet, bad diet or worry.

They believe that because they are tired, it must be the work that is hurting them. Work seldom hurts anyone who is physically fit. That is the one big essential. Keep every organ and muscle in your body in trim and you will be able to stand any amount of work.

People who get all run down from overwork and then are forced to take vacations, naturally improve in health while resting, but if they had taken care of themselves at work no forced vacations would have been necessary.

When the body has a terrible load of unphysiological habits to carry, additional work is a strain.

Ailments and disabilities are attributed very commonly to the less important instead of the most important causes. Consequently, the average health-seeker makes the error of correcting his daily regime in some non-essential respect. Great and permanent results require the

WHY NOT?

I gave the beggar fifty cents
From out my hard-earned competence,
And I felt very virtuous about it;
For there's joy to charity
Which warms the heart, as you'll agree
It does you good, there's not a chance to doubt it.

That night I drove my silver car,
I hadn't run it very far
When all at once a splendid boat
Went by me;
The man within the driver's seat
Was decked in costly garb and neat,
And with averted glance I saw him eye me.

Then all at once it came to me
Just who that wealthy bird might be—
It was the mendicant whom I had aided.
Of course it made me pretty sore
To think I'd given from my store
To one whose riches had me wholly faded.

I brooded on it far awhile

POWER PROBLEM IS SETTLED

Legislation Passed Granting Companies Right to Operate

INCLUDE RATES, FRANCHISE

Ordinances to Become Effective in Thirty Days

Lima's city commission met Monday night, considered a few minor matters, passed the street railway and electric power ordinances and adjourned.

Five ordinances designed to confer the right to operate in the city of the Lima City Street Railway and the Ohio Power Co., were passed but had little comment.

They included an electric power schedule, a street lighting contract, a steam heating schedule, a street railway franchise and authority to mortgage the franchise and protect the bondholders.

H. L. Breckenridge, commissioner, and C. A. Bingham, city manager, were absent from the meeting. A letter from Breckenridge, was read, however, in which he gave his consent to the power and railway ordinances.

IMMEDIATE TRANSFER

Immediate transfer of the property of the Ohio Electric Co. to Thomas Bingham and then to the Lima City Street Railway Co., and the Ohio Power Co., is expected.

None of the ordinances will be in effect for 30 days, it was announced, but this fact is not expected to in any way hinder the transfer of the property and the preparations to render better service.

Legislation for the paving of Goodland, between Market and High-street, was also ordered by the city commission. The paving of this street has been in dispute.

Members of the commission had nothing to say regarding the huge deficit which the city will face next year. It is believed they are awaiting the return of Bingham before making any action.

BIG ATTENDANCE AT TAX MEETING IS EXPECTED

A large attendance of farmers and others interested in the tax amendments which will be acted upon at the November election is expected at a tax meeting to be held Wednesday in the chamber of commerce auditorium.

It will be held under the auspices of the state farm bureau federation, the state grange and the Ohio Home Protective League. Officers of each of these organizations will be present.

Study of the amendments will be made by C. A. Dyer, tax expert, and an open discussion invited. It is understood the present amendments will be adopted.

The meeting will start at 10 a. m. Central time, and will continue throughout the day.

WILLIAM SELLERS, 83, IS CALLED BY DEATH

While attending services at Victoria church, near Cridersville, Va., William B. Sellers, 83, farmer, had a severe paralytic stroke that proved fatal, death occurring Monday.

He was a pioneer resident of Allen-co, he was born in Lima in 1839 and was living on his farm, six miles south of this city until the time of his death.

He is survived by his widow and five children, three sons, E. L., E. W. and James Sellers, all residing in Wapakoneta, and two daughters, Mrs. Charles Perkins, and Mrs. Fred Heywood of Cridersville.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at the Victoria church at 10 a. m., central standard time. Rev. J. M. Sherer, pastor, will officiate. Burial will be at Fairmount cemetery.

MOVIE BEING MADE OF RECORD HIGHWAY WORK

Methods employed in making a record for road construction on the Harding Highway east of Lima, will be filmed by moving picture cameramen for the U. S. Bureau of Investigation.

The checking of the cameras began Tuesday morning. Two days will be spent on the road, recording every step in road construction.

Six miles of the Harding Highway known as the Marion road are finished. Curtis V. Rietz, Municipal contractor, is working on the last three miles to be built.

BODY OF DONALD MCCLURE WILL BE BURIED IN LIMA

Body of Donald McClure, 27, of Lima, who died from tuberculosis last Friday in Sierra Madre, Cal., after a year's illness, will arrive in this city Wednesday for burial. The deceased had been in California for the last year in search of health.

Surviving are widow and daughter, Betty, the parents, Mr. and Mrs. William McClure, of E. Circular-st., and a brother Emmett, of this city.

TO MEET AT CLEVELAND HANSHIELD

The next session of the Northeast Ohio M. E. Conference will be held in Cleveland.

CURRENT EVENTS

Discussion of Important Questions of the Day for Students of Lima Schools, Written for Young Minds

LAST year students and teachers in Lima schools made such good use of "Current Events," a weekly feature in The Lima News, it has been decided to publish this feature again for their benefit.

The first article appears herewith and deals with four important questions. It is written in a manner that makes the explanation easily grasped by younger minds.

Superintendent Collins last year complimented The Lima News upon supplying this service and it was used extensively in classes, especially history classes. Teachers are urged to clip these articles and work them in with their lessons once a week. Another article will appear next week. They are non-political.

BALKAN WAR CLOUD BREAKING

The situation in Asia Minor, which, as you remember, threatened to cause a great war, grew steadily worse for several days, but toward the end of the week took a sudden turn which promises a sort of harmony for the time being, though it may not mean the end of trouble for good.

Mustapha Kemal Pasha, the Turkish general, after beating the Greeks and driving them from Asia Minor, began moving toward Constantinople, former capital of the Turkish Empire but under the allies since the World War.

In substance, Kemal said to the allies:

"I want, for Turkey, all of Thrace as far as the Maritza River, together with the cities of Constantinople and Adrianople. If you do not give them to me, I shall come with my army and take them."

France and Italy seemed in favor of giving to Kemal what he asked, but Great Britain refused, began rushing ships, troops, cannon and airplanes to resist Kemal, and there was every prospect of a fight.

At the last moment, however, at a meeting of the allies in Paris, the British partly consented to Kemal's terms, upon condition that troops be kept out of the territory where the Turks and their neighbors are most likely to quarrel; that an allied army be permitted to remain at Gallipoli, in order to be sure that the ships of the world may at all times pass freely through the Dardanelles, and that Turkey's Christian subjects be assured protection.

This agreement has not been positively closed but the prospects are that it will be concluded. It is a postponement of trouble rather than a final settlement. Still, it is better than fresh war now.

To understand the Turkish situation you should find these places on your map: Constantinople, Adrianople, Thrace, the Maritza River, Asia Minor and the Dardanelles.

NEW LAW ON TARIFF PASSED

After more than a year of debate in Congress, a new tariff bill has been passed and signed by the president. The law went into effect September 21.

The tariff is a schedule or list of duties or taxes placed on articles brought into our country (imported).

Those who favor the new law think it will prevent countries abroad from flooding the United States with cheaply produced goods and underselling our own manufacturers, and they estimate that it will bring into our national treasury, to pay government expenses, from $350,000,000 to $100,000,000 a year.

This law will be called the Tariff Act of 1922. It is called also the Fordney-McCumber tariff, because its authors were Representative Joseph W. Fordney of Michigan and Senator Porter J. McCumber of North Dakota.

It allows the president to change duties or taxes from time to time, when conditions affecting them change.

REGULATES TRADING IN GRAIN

Another law signed by the president, which will not go into effect until November 1, is called the Grain Futures Act.

It regulates the buying and selling of wheat and other grain in our great exchanges, in Chicago, Minneapolis, Duluth, Kansas City, St. Louis, Toledo, Milwaukee, Los Angeles and Baltimore.

The law forbids those who trade in grain to use schemes, plots or conspiracies to affect prices, or to spread false reports that might affect them.

The secretary of agriculture is given power to oversee the operation of grain exchanges and to make sure that nobody violates the law.

SOLDIERS' BONUS FAILS

Another measure which Congress passed, but which did not become law, because the president refused to sign it, was called by most people the Soldiers' Bonus Bill.

Many persons have felt since the World War that the American soldiers who served in that struggle were not sufficiently paid at the time and it was to give them a further allowance that the bill was intended. It was too complicated to explain in detail but this was its general purpose.

To make such a law it is necessary that both houses of Congress

HARDING'S FRIEND MAY BE BEATEN

Hot Senate Race Ends in New Jersey Primary Today

WOMEN'S VOTE BIG FACTOR

Contest is on Between Frelinghuysen and Record

NEWARK, N. J. — (Associated Press) — Women are expected to be the deciding factor in the Republican primary in New Jersey today.

Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, a close political and personal friend of President Harding, running in the direct primary for re-nomination is faced with a bitter enemy and a strong opponent in George L. Record, Jersey City lawyer, who has fought him in every corner of the state.

Leaders in the Republican party predict that a big vote by the women will go a long distance towards determining the result.

WAR DECLARED EARLY

War between Frelinghuysen and Record was declared early in the campaign. Record hired an automobile truck and went to the villages. He preached the "curbing of monopolies" and attacked Frelinghuysen's record in the senate.

Senator Frelinghuysen also has made an active campaign, traveling by touring car or train. His meetings were in halls. He spoke to the masses, but only such of them as could get into the buildings, while Record was calling every one to gather in front of the general store or at the town streets. Politicians say today's fight has aroused more feeling than any previous contest.

Record's face no real contests. Governor Edward I. Edwards is unopposed for the senatorial nomination. Judge George S. Silzer is a candidate for nomination for governor and he, too, is unopposed.

The Republicans will name State Senator William N. Ryan on the party's candidate for governor.

CITY MANAGER PLAN IS DROPPED BY YOUNGSTOWN

Citizens will be asked to decide between the federal plan and the "Youngstown plan" which provides ten councilmen from each ward, council to have power to remove incompetent officials.

TREASURY CERTIFICATES TO INCREASE IN PRICE

Issue prices of Treasury Savings certificates will be increased 2 1/2 per cent on October 1 over the prices which are now ruling. Postmaster A. E. Galt has announced.

It has been possible in the past to purchase a $1,000 maturity value certificate for $800, a $100 certificate for $80 and a $25 certificate for $20.

Effective October 1 the prices will be $820, $82 and $20.50 respectively. This will make the yield 4 1/2 per cent compounded semi-annually if held until redeemed.

Those who purchase treasury certificates until October 1 will obtain them at the old rate, thus effecting a saving of about 2 1/2 per cent on the purchase price.

HOW YOUR CLOTHES ADD SPICE TO YOUR BEAUTY

CLOTHES do not make the woman, but the right clothes do make for peace of mind and freedom from self-consciousness, which are most important, I believe, in gaining poise and charm.

And the wrong clothes are as ghastly about your personality as misstatements.

The object of clothes, as I see it, is not to draw attention to themselves, but to bring out individuality and character of her who wears them.

When a gown causes others to say, "What a stunning creation," I think it has failed in its mission. When it brings forth an enthusiastic, "Isn't that girl a real beauty?" I think it has succeeded.

CREATE YOUR TYPE

When a gown is so ornate and conspicuous it overpowers the wearer, it becomes her rival instead of her ally.

In clothes, as in everything else, I believe in bringing out your best points and creating your own type, regardless of Paris.

One is well dressed only when one can entirely forget clothes and radiate personality instead.

Since I was 19 years old I have been selecting my own clothes. At first I wasn't always successful but my mother encouraged me to exercise my own taste and to learn by experience what I liked and what I wanted to avoid.

HER TRAINING SUCCEEDS

On the whole, I believe this is an excellent plan, for I now have a well-defined idea of what I want, which I cultivate for myself, and which I adhere to in spite of fashion changes.

Because I like to be perfectly unconscious of my clothes afterward, I take good care in selecting them. I buy good materials because they wear best and look well for a longer period.

I select conservative models, on good lines, and avoid ornamentation that is likely to require a great deal of repair later, or trills that cannot be laundered and lose their freshness.

PREFERS SIMPLE LINES

Simple, straight lines appeal to me because they are girlish. For street wear I like dark colors, gaining variety in color in my hats, collars or accessories.

Savvy blue amounts to a positive weakness with me, but I've learned by experience that my regard for it is genuine.

I think small hats are smartest, but large ones most flattering, so I try to represent both in my wardrobe.

Short skirts are much more youthful than long ones, so I prophesy the extremely long ones will not last long. Nine inches from the floor seems to be the ideal length.

My sartorial creed isn't particularly distinctive and it really just amounts to this: To think one self true in clothes as in everything else.

CUFFS

Cuffs are becoming important again. Some frocks have very wide ones, and others have them at the wrist, and then again at the elbows.

LEARN A WORD A DAY

TODAY'S word is — CALIPH.

It is pronounced—kal-ih or kal-iff, with accent, in either case, on the first syllable, but with the "a" long in the former as in "kale," and short in the latter, as in "hat."

It means—literally "successor," but is used in English almost, if not quite, exclusively as a title applied to the successors of Mohammed, both as temporal and spiritual rulers, now claimed by the sultans of Turkey.

It comes from—Arabic "khalifa," to succeed.

It is used like this—"With the English holding him practically a prisoner and demanding from him a policy in line with their wishes, and with the Kemalists, who control most of his dominions, demanding from him an entirely different policy, the position of the caliph at Constantinople is embarrassing."

Sally and Martin Become Friends

By Zoe Heckley

BEGIN HERE TODAY

SALLY, an orphan, "lees from the inside of a new-rich mistress, whose or STANLEY, has befriended her. She gets employment in a soda fountain and makes the acquaintance of MARTIN, a photographer, who, on a motor trip, tries to kiss her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

With a little half-smile Sally waited for the outcome of the struggles in the young photographer. She looked confident, but in reality she was anxious. Martin was so obviously torn between the gross and shabby in him and the desire for nicer things.

She felt the pressure of his arm relax. He shrank a little in his seat. His flush of excitement fell to a dull self-consciousness.

"Sure," he murmured shamefacedly, sincerely, "I do want to see you again—be friends."

Sally sighed with relief. "I'm so glad! Because I like you and I want to be nice friends. I haven't anybody—only the girl that works in the store with me. And I never had a—ride in a car. It's been lovely and I'd like to have more afternoons like this."

Martin turned eager eyes on her. "Well, you'll have 'em, all right." There was excited pleasure in his manner as he started the engine in that Sally had called "a car." Then he added, "Say you're nice! Know what I mean?"

Sally knew and the rose of deep pleasure colored her cheek. He glanced at her. Again the artist in him stirred. And the nice boy in him was rewarded for winning out.

"Sure I know," laughed Sally. "Nice—the way you are!"

Then they both laughed at their mutual admiration and good feeling. Spontaneously Martin caught her hand. This time she responded and they gripped palms strenuously, part in fun, but mostly in deep earnest.

It began a pretty friendship. Martin developed the "plates" that night and eagerly telephoned her to stop in and see the results. Together they exclaimed and rejoiced at the charming outcome.

The young man made enlargements of the best, displayed them in his showcase, gave Sally copies, boasted of his model and felt the thrill of an artistic achievement.

The girl felt glad and proud of him. It chanced that in a neighboring big city a newspaper syndicate was conducting a "beauty contest."

The winner, to be judged finally by a committee in New York, was to be given an opportunity to appear in the great city's famous Manhattan Frolics for five weeks.

If she showed aptitude she would have a chance that thousands courted, for it was from the ranks of the showgirls in the Manhattan Frolics that many famous—and some otherwise—reputations arose.

Without considering the possible consequences, Martin, the photographer, sent Sally's prettiest picture to the contest. He did not even tell Sally.

SUSIE SMART'S ADVICE

Dear Miss Smart:

A girl friend is a very nice, lady-like girl but she goes with a girl who is inclined to be very loud and boisterous. I cannot understand what she sees in "this girl." They seem to be of such opposite types. It grieves me greatly to see her going with her but she always seems to be quite vexed if I mention the fact. What can I do to make her stop keeping company with this girl?

"JIMMIE"

PERHAPS, "Jimmie," you have never stopped to realize that beneath this girl's apparent noisy and boisterous disposition she may have some very fine and womanly traits. It is probable that your friend realizes this and that is why she enjoys this girl's friendship.

There are many girls, who, unfortunately, possess a heavy voice, which makes them appear unfeminine and some times almost vulgar.

Possibly your girl friend can help her by tactfully persuading her to be less noisy in her manner. Instead of inducing your friend to give up her companion try to prove to her that it would be a kindness to this girl if she would help her to attain a quieter lady-like disposition.

Dear Miss Smart:

I have a girl friend, whom I like very much and value her friendship very much. She bawls me out in front of other girls and never comes to my house but always asks me to come to her house. How shall I get her to treat me like she does other girls? (2) Please tell me how a girl can get a boy friend? I mean how to act in front of one to give him a nice impression of you. (3) Give me some names for a girl's club. We want a pretty name—a common name. (4) Please mention in full what one should eat to get rid of pimples and blackheads. (5) How is my writing? PRINCESS MARY

(1) If your friend continues to "bawl you out" simply show a respectful attitude on your part. It is very rude and improper for her to treat you discourteously and the only way for you to make her respect you is to show displeasure when she displays an indifferent attitude toward you. (2) Never act, my dear. Just be yourself and you will find that you will be far more attractive and charming than if you manner were one "produced by artifice." Boys like girls, who are pleasant and good sports in the right way. (3) The Jolly club, Merry-Go-Rounders, Happy Go-Lucky, Fun Seekers or the Funny Bunch are "peppy" names for a club of girls organized to have a good time. (4) You should have your family physician prescribe a blood tonic for you. One who is bothered with pimples should be very careful not to eat foods that are rich such as pastry or candy. (5) Your writing is fair.

TAKES BUSINESS COURSE AT 52

WICHITA, Kan.—Mrs. Margaret Elliott was 52 years old and the grandmother of a girl of 15 before she decided to become a business woman.

She has just been graduated from a Wichita commercial college, where she took a course in accountancy.

Her husband, a working man, has brought up a family of four children, but has never been able to get far enough ahead financially to build a home. Now the children are old enough not to need their mother's constant care, so she decided to lend a hand in accumulating a "stake" for a comfortable old age for herself and her life's partner.

"It was hard work at first," she says, "going to school among girls some of whom were no older than my granddaughter." Nevertheless, she made an excellent student and passed her examinations with much credit.

Possibly your girl friend can help her by tactfully persuading her to be less noisy in her manner. Instead of inducing your friend to give up her companion try to prove to her that it would be a kindness to this girl if she would help her to attain a quieter lady-like disposition.

Dear Miss Smart:

I have a girl friend, whom I like very much and value her friendship very much. She bawls me out in front of other girls and never comes to my house but always asks me to come to her house. How shall I get her to treat me like she does other girls? (2) Please tell me how a girl can get a boy friend? I mean how to act in front of one to give him a nice impression of you. (3) Give me some names for a girl's club. We want a pretty name—a common name. (4) Please mention in full what one should eat to get rid of pimples and blackheads. (5) How is my writing? PRINCESS MARY

(1) If your friend continues to "bawl you out" simply show a respectful attitude on your part. It is very rude and improper for her to treat you discourteously and the only way for you to make her respect you is to show displeasure when she displays an indifferent attitude toward you. (2) Never act, my dear. Just be yourself and you will find that you will be far more attractive and charming than if you manner were one "produced by artifice." Boys like girls, who are pleasant and good sports in the right way. (3) The Jolly club, Merry-Go-Rounders, Happy Go-Lucky, Fun Seekers or the Funny Bunch are "peppy" names for a club of girls organized to have a good time. (4) You should have your family physician prescribe a blood tonic for you. One who is bothered with pimples should be very careful not to eat foods that are rich such as pastry or candy. (5) Your writing is fair.

"Jimmie"

PERHAPS, "Jimmie," you have never stopped to realize that beneath this girl's apparent noisy and boisterous disposition she may have some very fine and womanly traits. It is probable that your friend realizes this and that is why she enjoys this girl's friendship.

There are many girls, who, unfortunately, possess a heavy voice, which makes them appear unfeminine and some times almost vulgar.

Possibly your girl friend can help her by tactfully persuading her to be less noisy in her manner. Instead of inducing your friend to give up her companion try to prove to her that it would be a kindness to this girl if she would help her to attain a quieter lady-like disposition.

ALIAS THE LONE WOLF

BY LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE

A glimpse of startled faces was all that Jules touched before the headlights switched and opened the exhaust of the roaring of the latter Lanyard landed he could hear a faint thing sound. He looked back and saw a grimly. Sharp, short flames of orange and scarlet were stabbing at darkness. Somebody had opened a door with an automatic pistol . . . a waste of ammunition!

JULES OPENED THE EXHAUST

The pace waxed terrific on a road, so many roads of France, apparently interminable and straight, and set long before the road ended. Lanyard, staring astern as he melted on the rear seat with arms crossed on the folded top, saw the white eyes of the gray car swing into view and start in pursuit. Dark work, he called it. He crawled forward and communicated his news.
"Don't ease up unless you have the counsel," don't think we are giving them an inch." Back at his post of observation, he watched, hoping against hope, the car lunged and tore like mad thing thru the night, shortening up grades, screaming down them, drumming across the levels, splashing wildly thru villages and fields. His heart sank as minute succeeded minute, mile followed mile, and ever the lights of the pursuing car, lost to sight from time to time, reappeared with a brighter, fiercer glow, and conviction forced itself upon him that they were being pursued but surely overhauled. He took this intelligence to the ear of Jules. The chauffeur answered only with a worried shake of his head that said too plainly he was doing his best extracting every ounce of power from the engine. Less than three hundred yards separated pursuer and pursued as he raced out thru open fields, race more. And foot by foot this was being inexorably cut down. In the seat beside the driver of the gray car a man rose and, steady as himself by holding onto the dashboard, poured out the contents of an automatic, presumably hoping a puncture the tires of the quarry. A bullet bored a neat hole thru the windshield between the heads of Liane Delorme and Jules. The woman slipped down upon the floor and Jules crouched over the wheel. Lanyard fingered his automatic but said his fire.
Instead, he turned to the lunch pail and opened it. In the bottom of the basket lay six pint bottles of champagne, four of them unopened. Lanyard took them to the rear seat and found the gray car had drawn up to within fifty yards of his. Making a pace better than seventy miles per hour, it would not dare swerve.
The first empty bottle broke to pieces and the second squarely between the front wheels. He grasped the first full bottle by the neck and that it might promise more comfort, but ducked before attempting to throw it as a volley of shots sought to discourage him. At the first full he rose and cast the bottle with the overhand action employed in grenade throwing. It landed fairly beneath the nearer front wheel of the gray car, but without effect. The lead had been added to thirty yards. In two minutes more it would be nothing. The fourth bottle went wide, but the fifth exploded six inches in front of the off-side wheel and its jagged fragments ripped out the heart of the tire. On the instant the accompanying blow-out the car shied like a frightened horse and swerved off the road, hurling headlong into a clump of trees. The subsequent crash was like the detonation of a great bomb. Deep shadows masked that tragedy beneath the trees. Lanyard permit me, Captain Monk, to present my brother, Paul Delorme." The educated eyebrows expressed any number of emotions. Monk's hand was cordially extended. "But I am enchanted, Monsieur Delorme, to welcome on board the Sybarite the brother of your charming sister." Lanyard resigned him fingers to this class.

"And most public-spirited of you, I'm sure, Captain Monk . . . Another bow. Lanyard looked to Liane: "Forgive me if I seem confused, but I thought you told me Mister Whitaker Monk had sailed for America a week ago."
"And so he did," the captain agreed blandly. "Mr. Monk, the owner, a my cousin. You see in me merely the skipper of my wealthy kinsman's yacht."
"And your two names are the same—yours and your cousin's? You're both Whitaker Monks?"
"It is a favorite name in our family, monsieur."
Lanyard wagged his head in solemn admiration.
"That makes it all so clear!"
"Well, anyway I'm glad to meet you to your bare face," said Monk. "And now suppose we adjourn to the skipper's quarters, where we can improve one another's acquaintance."
Lanyard remarked that there were places laid for four. He had been expected, then. Neither Monk nor Phinuit had betrayed the least surprise on seeing Lanyard; and Phinuit had not even troubled to recognize the fiction which Liane had uttered in accounting for him.
Liane had got her second wind and was playing variations on the theme of the famous six bottles of champagne. Lanyard lounged in his easy chair and let his bored thoughts wander.
Lanyard finally broke in: "Who is Dupont, and why?"
"If you're asking me," Monk replied, "I'll say—going on mademoiselle's story—Monsieur Dupont is by now a ghost."
"One would be glad to be sure of that," Lanyard murmured.
"But all this begs my question," Lanyard objected. "Who is Dupont, and why?"
"I think I can answer that question, monsieur." This was Liane Delorme.
"I recognized him this morning."

CHAPTER XVIII
Buccaneering a la Mode
Ten minutes after their arrival in Cherbourg, Liane, Lanyard and Jules had darted up a gang-plank to the main deck of a small steam vessel, excessively neat and smart. Lanyard stopped short with his hand on the mahogany handrail.
"I say, Liane! Haven't we stumbled into the wrong pew? This is a private yacht."
"It is the little ship of a dear friend, monsieur, who generously permits . . . But patience! Very soon you shall know."
A door had opened in the after partition, two men had entered. Above a bank, well-poised body clothed in the white tunic and trousers of a ship's officer, he recognized the tragicomic mask of the soul-distant Mr. Whitaker Monk. At his shoulder shone the bland, intelligent countenance of Mr. Phinuit.
From this last Lanyard received a good-natured nod, while Monk proceeded directly to Liane Delorme and bowed low over the hand which she languidly lifted to be saluted.
"My dear friend," he said in his sonorous voice. "In another hour I should have begun to grow anxious about you."
"You would have had good reason, monsieur. It is not two hours since one has escaped death—and that for the second time in a single day—by the slenderest margin and thanks solely to this gentleman here."

Monk consented to see Lanyard, and immediately offered him a profound salute, which was punctiliously returned. His eyebrows mounted to the roots of his hair.
"Ah! that good Monsieur Duchemin!"
"But not!" Liane laughed. "It is true, the resemblance is striking; if Paul would consent to grow a beard, it would be extraordinary. But—" when you were struggling with him. His name is Popinot in Paris in my day; they nicknamed him the Prince of the Apaches. But he was an older man, and died by the guillotine. This Popinot who calls himself Dupont, then, must be his son."

"That is true, monsieur."
"All of which brings us to the second part of my question, Liane: Why Dupont?"
Liane shrugged and studied her bedizened fingers. The heavy black brows circled Monk's eyes, and he drew down the corners of his wide mouth. Phinuit fixed an amused gaze on a distant corner of the room and chewed his cigar.
"Why did Dupont—or Popinot, Lanyard persisted—"murder de Lorgnes? Why did he try to murder Mademoiselle Delorme? Why did he seek to prevent our reaching Cherbourg?"
"Give you three guesses," Phinuit offered amiably. "But I warn you if you use more than one you'll forfeit my respect forever."
"You admit, then, you have the jewels?"
"Why not?" Phinuit inquired coolly. "We took trouble enough to get them, don't you think? You're taking trouble enough to get them away from us, aren't you? You don't want us to think you so stupid as to be wasting our time, do you?"
His imperturbable effrontery was so amusing that Lanyard laughed outright. Then, turning to Liane, he offered her a grateful inclination of the head.
"Mademoiselle, you have kept your promise. Many thanks."
"He's out!" cried Phinuit. "What promise?"
"Monsieur Lanyard desired a favor of me," Liane explained, her good humor restored. "In return for saving me from assassination by Popinot this morning, he begged me to help him find the jewels of Madame de Montalais."
Lanyard addressed himself to Liane: "Do I understand the jewels are on this vessel?"
"In this room."

MR. PIM PIM RESCUES THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

The next thing he knew two pairs of feet were dangling in front of his nose.
Flap-Doodle had dumped Nancy and Nick into a mud puddle, and there they were up to their necks in mud. They couldn't walk then, they couldn't run, they were stuck out of it because their mud shoes had come off in the mud. Under the ground Mr. Pim Pim the Brownie, was just about to enter his dinner when suddenly the roof of his house caved in right on top of his dining-room table.
The next thing he knew two pairs of feet were dangling in front of his nose and four Green Shoes dropped plump into the soup-tureen.
"Great gingerbreads!" cried Mr. Pim Pim, springing up and doing a little jig with his mud shoes. "Some thing has happened on top of the earth and if I am not mistaken, it has happened to Nancy and Nick. So he called Kip, his child helper, and they got ladders and crawled up out of a three-cornered door."

Won't You Do This?

If only I could bring to you the keen satisfaction I enjoy with Golden Sun. Then, never would you be in doubt as to the goodness and delicacy of the coffee you serve.

In my own case, I had used many kinds of coffee but none seemed to hit the right spot with Tom.

My grocer first interested me in Golden Sun by offering me my money back if, after I had used a full tin, I did not think it was the finest coffee we had ever tasted. He was right. As a result we have used Golden Sun ever since.

Many of my friends have followed my example. And I know if you will do as I did, you too, will make Golden Sun the foundation of every meal you serve.

My grocer tells me the money-back offer is still in effect, so you can try this good coffee the same way I did. Once you've done this you'll agree with me that Golden Sun is the coffee for your family.

In addition, Dave Driscoll, matchmaker for Eubanks' Field has called an offer of $100,000 for Siki to box Harry Wills, negro challenger for Jack Dempsey's heavyweight title, on October 12.

VALENTINO KISSED HER, BUT SHE DIDN'T FALL!

(By ESTHER WAGNER)
All for Valentino? I should say not!
This from a girl who has been in tight embrace by him, whose arms met his, whose arms have hugged about his neck.
"Down in 'Little Italy' when a kid I knew a hundred boys were better looking than Ruddy. You can find plenty of them to the corners of Bleeker. They have better features than the girl is Nita Naldi. The em- and kisses were for 'Blood and Sand.' But they were not ordi- acting emotions.
Valentino is the most sincere I know," Nita says. "He lives part, even in the love scenes than once Fred Niblo, the di- would call 'That's far Ruddy! Don't get too rough!"
And she didn't fall for that sort of love-making by a man in whose arms countless thousands of fair movie fans have visioned them- selves!
Nita Naldi calls a spade a spade. Her frankness is refreshing.
Here are just a few of the things that she tells about herself in a casual conversation:
She's 23.
She never wears corsets.
She tells casting directors she's five feet five, but she's really five feet eight and a half.
She was a show girl in the Follies and in "Sally."
She once was introduced to a prominent producer who wanted her to play vamp parts. She laughed in his face when she saw he combed his hair from the back to front to hide his baldness. She didn't get the job.

Who's at the New Orpheum!

ELL, here's a top-notch little offering at the New Orpheum theatre this week that should be an instantaneous hit with vaude-voers all over the city.
A gem, well-placed principals, a cut, snappily attired chorus, scenery and lighting effects in the "Good Bye Broadway" any one of the best musical re- brought here thus far this sea- son. The music is splendid thrum- mery little plot keeps you ting, a clever comedian fills in here, and the offering as a whole is worthy of your patron-

Some of the features of the piece are a charming Highlanders and a pretty Oriental scene and a delightful vocal solos by Bonah Hayes, Joe Carr, ably aided by Miss Hayes, made a big hit with the rendition of "Oh Me, Oh from the well known musical "Two Little Girls in Blue." and so on, indefinitely. In all city, we recommend the current at the New Orpheum as one that is the most exciting. It is a dressy and well-staged, with a player a likeable personality. The two performances each even-

New Two and Three Piece Fur-trimmed Suits Arrive

As yet the greatest wealth of Fashion that has invaded the Third Floor is in Suits and Coats, of deep fabrics, deep colorings and rich furs.

These Suits, newly arrived are of duvetyn, moussyne, fine twill cords, trico- tiones, etc.

Shades are black, old blue, deep rich browns, and grey, and the fur is chosen to blend with color and texture of materials. Platinum fox, wolf, caracul, beaver, blended squirrel, grey squirrel and similar furs are used to advantage on long col- lars, wide cuffs, and in various ways at the girdle or on the back.

For the most part they can be divided into the three modes shown above—but all are distinctly individual in creation. The blouse effect is the same low grace- ful style that is found in so many of the smarter frocks, the long tailored lines are an echo of these in the plain tailieurs and the free unbelted coat, long and of smart cut is come from the costume mode—a suit for dress wear, especially.

Two piece suits of coat and skirt— three piece suits of frock and lined coat to match.

$29⁷⁵ to $190

The Printz Tailleurs, $39.50, $49.50, $59

For street and business, for any wear that requires a suit of smart lines, durable fabrics, and good ap- pearance, Printzess has fashioned a most satisfactory suit—the tailored twillcoats and tricotines.

Printzess suits are universally worn by women of smart appearance—they combine quality with a nominally low price—they are the utmost in conservative style, and the mode of each year is so little changed except in line, that styles are good for several seasons continuous wear—lin- ings are guaranteed for two years.

So that when you have seen the Printzess suit designed for your type of figure, and heard its unusual price —you will understand what is meant by value received.
